

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States

The declaration of The New American Independent Political Party of the United States

When in the course of the political process a country in which the two party system becomes non-functional due to political bi-partisanship, it is time for the people of the United States to declare a third functional party. We believe that all people have the life, liberty, dignity, self determination, and happiness. We believe that governing is a function that all people have a right and responsibility to be involved in. We believe that our government should strive to these goals. This party facilitates those who are not professional politicians to run for office.

Neither the Republican nor the Democrat party are able to cooperate together for the public good. Each party is bound by their party platform and their party loyalty. As a result we have a dysfunctional political system. The New American Independent Political Party of the United States strives to repair this problem.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States provides for a party in which independent candidates can run for office. They can run on their principles, not upon a party's fixed platform, or being forced to follow party loyalty. The New American Independent Party of the United States provides for a political party which is open for compromise and listening to opposing views. The New American Independent Party of the United States allows our politicians to represent their constituents, and it allows for political officials who are able to solve problems and not be mired in partisan politics and party loyalty.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States returns the political system of the United States back into control of the people. We deserve a country of the people, by the people, for the people, not a country of the political elite, by the political elite, for the political elite. Running for office under the current funding methods as a Republican or Democrat is virtually impossible unless you are already a member of the political elite. The New American Independent Party of the United States empowers politicians to run for office who are not a member of the lifelong elite politicians.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States is an independent party which is moderate, neither right winged or left winged in its political philosophy.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States helps advance our civilization and our prosperity. Our current political officials are not able to make independent decisions. They must follow fixed party guidelines. The fixed party guidelines of our two political parties can never answer all of the unanticipated decisions that they will be making in the future. Independent politicians can.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States is directed by an overlying philosophy, not fixed guidelines which attempt to direct each individual decision by our politician as are in all other party's political platforms. Character of our politicians is much more important than the rhetoric that we hear while campaigning.

When our government does not do its job, this includes items such as enforcing the law, receiving the representation we deserve, etc, the people will pick up this job themselves, possibly by violence. We need real political change before we the people are forced to pick up this duty ourselves, usually through vigilantism, riots, or other civil unrest. We need to change this now since our government is not doing its job.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States provides a party in which we can trust our politicians. It is time for a new political party. We the people of the United States are uniting together to effect real lasting changes.

The New American Independent Political Party of the United States platform constitution

Article I (philosophy)

We the people of The New American Independent Political Party of the United States find the following statements to be true, and will direct our decision making:

- All American citizens must have equal access to their political system, and have a voice in it.
- All Americans citizens have the right to life, liberty, dignity, self determination and pursuit of happiness.
- All Americans citizens must be able reach their own full potential.
- All Americans citizens have the right to the best health and healthy environment that can be reasonable attained.
- All Americans citizens have the right to gain from the fruits of our country, none should ever be left behind.
- We are a country of laws, and if we have issues with our laws, we change them through public vote to change the laws, to benefit all Americans.
- All political representatives are servants to the public.
- All Americans citizens deserve equal justice.
- All Americans citizens have the right to benefit from their labors.
- All elected officials must be of high ethical behavior.
- All Americans citizens have the right and responsibility to recall any elected official who have violated the public trust through serious misconduct and/or malfeasance while in office.
- All government shall be as transparent as much as possible.
- All political decisions should be based upon the question, "Is this good for my constituents, is this good for the people of the United States."
- Our government shall minimize intervention in American's personal lives.
- Our government shall not tolerate monopolies or market collusion.
- Our government shall consider America first in decision making.
- No Independent shall serve more than two consecutive terms in any one office. This does allow for serving in the same office after leaving the office for at least one term of that office.
- All other stances for political decisions are reserved to the political official running for office.

Article II (Organization)

This is the organization of the party and each positions responsibility. This can be amended and modified as described below. The New American Independent Political Party of the United States shall be organized as follows:

The party shall be organized with the following platform staff as a minimum:

- One chairman
- Two co-chairs
- One administrator
- One treasurer

Additional staff may be added by the party chairman as needed with agreement from the co-chairs and/or by a vote with the committee members. For example clerks, web page administrators, etc. This is expected to change as needed for the party. All disagreements are voted on by committee members to resolve the issue.

The party shall have the following committee members:

Each state and territory shall have two committee members. All changes that are to be made for the party such as changes in policy, philosophy, staff changes, budgeting, who can run under the party for government elections, etc are decided by a vote from the committee members. These are the members from each state and territory. In the event of a tie, the tie will be broken by a vote from the party chairman.

Responsibilities:

The party chairman is responsible for calling all meetings and organizing these meetings. The chair is responsible for party administration. The chair relies on platform staff for assistance. The platform is responsible for public communication at the national level, but can utilize staff or committee members if needed. The party chair facilitates and aids committee members to accomplish their tasks. The chair is responsible for recruiting/appointing committee members.

Committee members from each state are responsible for administration within their state or territory. They may hire staff as needed at the approval of the chairman. The committee members are responsible for getting ballot access for their state. Committee members are responsible for recruiting (providing official access to the party) for new candidates who are running for political office. They help these candidates to get access and support of the party. The committee member can reject candidates who wish to be in the party if they do not feel that they will abide by the Article I (philosophy) points above. A candidate can also be rejected by a 60% vote against the candidate by all of the other committee members.

General statements:

The party will rely on internet heavily and efforts for getting news coverage from news media. This party will be driven as a grass root effort. Any funds received from major donors does not mean that that donor will receive any favors from the party or candidates who are running for public office. This is a party of the people, for the people, by the people.

Article III (Rational for philosophy)

"All American citizens must have equal access to their political system, and have a voice in it."

We must all get our feedback into our political system to make the best decisions we can. Each of us has a great deal of knowledge and we are all very smart. We all think that we are right in what we think. Of course we do, if we did not think we were right we would change our mind and learn! But, we are not always right, but collectively, we will always make the best decisions that we could have possibly have made. We may make mistakes, but we could not have done better. The secret strength of America is that we have a diverse population, and with this and cooperating and working together, we always make the best decisions that we can possibly made. Every voice must be heard.

" All Americans citizens have the right to life, liberty, dignity, self determination and pursuit of happiness."

This statement is self evident. Each of us would like to have this. If I would like this, than I think that we all want this too. We are all servants to each other, we should help each other to achieve these goals.

" All Americans citizens must be able reach their own full potential."

If every person was able to reach their own full potential, not only would this be good for them, but it is good for all of us. America would be far better off if we work towards this goal, for all of us. We are all in this together, we help our brothers and sisters!" This includes the best education that we can afford, equal opportunity, etc.

"All Americans have the right to the best health and healthy environment that can be reasonable attained."

If we are in the best health that we can be, it is best for all of us. This is similar to enabling people to reach their full potential as above. We will all be better off!

"All Americans have the right to gain from the fruits of our country, none should ever be left behind."

We all work hard, and we should be able to gain from our work. We should not be working where we do not get fair gains from our work. There is a terrible in equality of wealth in our country. This is undermining our economy. What do you do with money when you have it? You spend it! Which is more important at a concert, the band or the audience? The answer is that they are both important. Without the band, there would be no concert, but without the audience, there would be not concert. They are both important. What is occurring in our country is that the audience does not have much money in their pocket. They cannot go to as many concerts. As a result, we have fewer concerts. This is what is happening to our businesses. We don't have much money, so we cannot buy as much. Our companies don't have the businesses, so they don't sell as much, and do badly. Then we have fewer jobs, and then we have less money to buy stuff with. There are a few people in the country who have much money and hoard the money. As a result, there is not as much in the hands of the general public. We need to work to distribute wealth more equitably. If we did, we would purchase more, our businesses would do better. Those who own the businesses would do better, and if this was then shared back, we would have more money in our hands and it would be a runaway process to a better economy and wealth for all of us. Right now we have a runaway capitalism. Our politicians shall strive to facilitate a more equitable distribution of wealth.

"We are a country of laws, and if we have issues with our laws, we change them through public vote to change the laws, to benefit all Americans."

We are a land of laws. We have worked together over generations to create these laws. We have worked to have fair laws, but as things change, for example technology, we need to be able to change laws and modify them. We must follow the laws as best we reasonably can, but if we disagree with the law, we need to work to change them. We many discover that as our civilization evolves and changes, our laws need to be changed. We many need to demonstrate to bring attention to the need to change, but we should not ever have destruction or damage. We need to be able to voice our opinions, issues, and observations. We need to be listened to and have the ability to change the laws without undo difficulties.

"All political representatives are servants to the public."

Elected officials seem to feel that the people are just peasants that need to be ruled by them. They think that it is our job to be servants to them, and have forgotten that they are representatives, who represent their constituents. It is a blessing to be able to serve others, but our politicians think that it is a blessing to rule over and have power over others. This needs to change. Elected officials must place the interest of their constituents before their party alliances, their own self interests, that of lobbyist, or friends. If this continues, we will respect and trust our political officials less and less. We will then discontinue following their laws or rules. Politicians are servants to the public, not the public is a servant to their politicians.

"All Americans citizens deserve equal justice. "

This is a self evident. Justice for all is something that we all want, not just for us, but for others as well. We become very offended when we see our brothers and sisters mistreated by others or are mistreated ourselves. Furthermore, we become very offended when we see that the rich or elite political officials getting away with crime that any of us would be seriously prosecuted for. When this occurs, we begin to disrespect the law, and our political officials and the elite. This leads to anarchy if not stopped. Why should I obey the law when my leaders cannot follow it and get away getting rich? Our political officials shall strive to enact laws to provide for equality.

"All Americans citizens have the right to benefit from their labors."

If I do not benefit from my labor, why should I work? We really ask for little, just fair pay for a fair job, and to be treated fairly where we work. Our government shall minimize taxation so as to maximize the individual's gains from their labor. Political officials must spend public money as if it is from their own pocket. Political officials should frown upon and not enable or reward companies that do not properly compensate their labor or fairly treat their labor.

"All elected officials must be of high ethical behavior."

Elected officials must be of high ethical behavior as the public expects. These officials lead by example, and if our leadership is not ethical, then why should we the public be ethical. It is essential that our political leadership exemplify high ethical values.

"All Americans citizens have the right and responsibility to recall any elected official who have violated the public trust through serious misconduct and/or malfeasance while in office."

An elected official is privileged to be able to serve their constituents. If during this time they violate the public trust, we have the right and responsibility to remove them from office. If an official is allowed to continue their misconduct, this can do great damage to our political system and our society.

"All government shall be as transparent as much as possible."

Transparency of government is essential to our democracy. All actions, as much as possible, must and should be shared with the public. Nothing should be held as private if it is not necessary. If the public does not have transparency, we will assume the worst and loose trust in our government. Also, if transparent, the public can give their feedback into the system to collect the ideas of all and come to better decisions. For example, if a bill is to pass through congress, it should be publishes prior to the congressional voting (with ample time for public review and feedback). No bills should ever be voted on at midnight or without sufficient time for public discussion before voting. There are items which due to national security, for example, which may not be able to be shared. But all efforts should be made to get as much public feedback as possible. The public needs to have a voice in public decision making.

"All political decisions should be based upon the question, "Is this good for my constituents, is this good for the people of the United States."

Decision being made by our political officials should only consider this when making decisions. As representatives of their constituents, they should not consider if it good for themselves as the highest priority. We do also have to remember and think about citizens who are not our constituents (or other countries) when making decisions. But it is also clear that if we cause significant harm to others, this will certainly not work out well for us. There are exceptions, but certainly answering this question is the first and highest to consider when making any decisions.

"Our government shall minimize intervention in American's personal lives."

We value our privacy and expect to respect other's privacy as well. We do not need our government meddling and spending our resources intervening in the public's personal lives. We do understand that under some extraordinary circumstance the government may need to intervene (national security, law enforcement, etc), but this should be limited. If a government agency does interfere, and does it without good reason, the agency should "have skin in the game".

"Our government shall not tolerate monopolies or market collusion."

Monopolies and market collusion is extremely harmful to a capitalist system. Without competition in the market, capitalism simply does not function. The government will not allow this to happen. We have a capitalistic system run amuck right now. Due to this, it is causing our economy to function at a far lower than optimal level. This makes the main bulk of our society to be much poorer than it should be.

"Our government shall consider America first in decision making."

Too often in the past, our government has spent more time worrying about other countries rather than our own. Due to this, our economy and society has been suffering. We are not taking care of our self, and are becoming more and more incapable of helping others. We are becoming the wounded trying to help wounded. This is causing us to be less and less able to help others.

"All other stances for political decisions are reserved to the political official running for office."

All of the above "plank statements" comprise the basic philosophy of the party, or rather the party members character. Note that none of these are specific stances on any issues. Stances on specific issues are held by the political candidate who is running for office. For example, this party is neither pro nor anti abortion, however the candidate for office may have a stance on this issue and is responsible for communicating these types of issues to the public. This is done on purpose so that independent candidates are not forced to support any specific stances on any issues to be a member of the party. Note that one of the main purposes of this party is to allow independent candidates to run for office. Another purpose it to facilitate a path for the public to be able to run for office, not just the career politicians.
